

Internships Abroad:

Students have the option to do an internship abroad through multiple Cal Poly Affiliated Programs and Non-Affiliated Programs. Programs that offer internships typically help students with placement opportunities, housing, and group excursions or activities. Summer is the most popular time to complete an internship and students often take one or two classes at the same time. Doing an internship abroad during the summer between your second and third year is a great opportunity to gain experience that you can use to find a domestic internship between your third and fourth year.
